Warren Says Constitution Protects 'Faith Itself'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief Justice Earl Warren, speaking at the dedication of a cathedral tower, declared today the Constitution's separation of church and state is "for the protection not only of the state, but of faith itself."

Thus Warren alluded to the renewed controversy over the Supreme Court's decisions holding that required prayers and Bible reading in public schools are unconstitutional.

The House Judiciary Committee is now hearing witnesses on proposals to amend the Constitution to permit prayers and Bible reading in the schools.

Warren, in remarks prepared for the dedication of the bell tower at Washington Episcopal

Cathedral, said that "though our Founding Fathers maintained and we have preserved a separation of church and state, we are a religious people."

"The underlying concepts of our system of justice are ethical or religious, if you please. They derive from our convictions about the dignity of man."

Warren declared "our nation at its best reflects a religious people" and recalled that the Supreme Court itself had said "the history of man is inseparable from the history of religion. And since the beginning of that history many people have devoutly believed that 'more things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of.'"

"But," added Warren, "religion is, under our Constitution, incapable of state establishment; this is for the protection not only of the state, but of faith itself, in all its forms."

"The interaction of religion and the state is, therefore, made informal and free, not barren and nonexistent as some suppose. It is as fruitful and unfettered as we have the strength to make it."

Solon Chides Turks, Greeks

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—U.S. Sen. J. W. Fulbright criticized both Greece and Turkey today for their actions in the Cyprus crisis.

Arriving on the last leg of his Cyprus fact-finding mission, the chairman of the U.S. Senate Foreign Relations Committee said:

"Congress, and I especially, feel a sense of frustration if our friends and allies are engaged in their own affairs and do not take into consideration the security of the Western world."

Fulbright came to Ankara after a day in Athens, Greece, and a day in London. He goes to the Netherlands on Friday.

Fulbright again said he did not bring any solution or proposal for Cyprus.

"I am here to learn," he said "to find out what is the attitude of the Turkish government."

Touch-and-Go Landing Brings Death to 4 GIs

FORT WALTON BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The Air Force is investigating the crash of a C123 which claimed the lives of four men and injured four others Thursday.

The aircraft crashed during routine touch and go landings less than 1,000 yards from U.S. Highway 98 at near Hurlburt Air Force Field. The plane was at the Gen. Jimmy Doolittle Field, a small runway used by Doolittle while training for his raid on Tokyo in World War II.

LBJ SEES VAST CHALLENGE

Civil Rights Backers Win First Round

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate sponsors of the civil rights bill have won their first test of strength, but it was a close call.

After four roll calls Wednesday night—one a 45-45 tie—the Senate rejected 46 to 45 a jury trial amendment to the measure.

The votes were the first on any of the nearly 100 amendments offered to the House-passed bill since the Senate's civil rights debate began on March 9.

The defeated amendment, called up by Sen. Thurston B. Morton R-Ky., would have provided for jury trials in criminal contempt of court cases arising out of antidiscrimination injunctions authorized by the bill.

It was opposed by the Johnson administration and the bill's sponsors, both Democrats and Republicans.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., leader of the Southern forces, said a variation of it is likely to be offered next week in an effort to reverse the outcome.

"I was disappointed in the vote," he said. "I thought we had enough to carry it. But the pressures were too great."

The vote was a bit too close for comfort for the other side, Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, GOP floor manager for the bill, called it distressing.

The vote left as the Senate's pending business a limited jury trial amendment proposed by the Senate's two leaders, Democrat Mike Mansfield and Republican Everett M. Dirksen.

Under this, defendants in criminal contempt cases growing out of the bill's enforcement provisions would be entitled to trial by jury only if the penalty was in excess of 30 days in jail or a $300 fine.

Just when their amendment will reach a vote was left up in the air.

Mansfield told the Senate there was a possibility it would be voted on late Monday or early Tuesday, but he said no commitment had been obtained.

Southern foes can stave off a vote by continuing to talk against it. They can get a vote first on another amendment like Morton's if they offer one.

Ohio's Senators Split on Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio Democratic Sen. Stephen M. Young and Frank J. Lausche were on opposite sides Wednesday as the Senate defeated, 46-45, an amendment to the civil rights bill which would have guaranteed jury trials in criminal contempt cases arising from the bill. Young voted against the amendment and Lausche for it.

In another roll call, Young voted against Lausche for an amendment to the bill which would have required jury trials in criminal contempt proceedings arising under the public accommodations and fair employment sections but left jury trial under other sections with the judge's discretion. The amendment was defeated, 74-19.

Johnson To Call Back Congress If It Sidetracks Key Measures

WASHINGTON (AP) — While reporters' children squirmed in their seats and munched on cookies, President Johnson passed on the kind of news that makes congressmen squirm: Act on the administration program or face a possible late summer recall.

"The people's business must come first," the President declared as he mixed business — replying to newsmen's question — with pleasure—playing picnic host in the White House back yard.

"I strive to please," Johnson said at one point Wednesday, and the setting proved it. Before him were tots to teen-agers, children of newsmen invited to the presidential news conference and plied with pop served up at gaily colored refreshment stands.

The newsmen's wives responded to the presidential invitation too, and by White House count there were 1,000 people on hand—a record, of sorts, for the usually serious business of dealing with the press.

On the sober side, Johnson: Announced that Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara will make still another visit to South Viet Nam to see how the war against Communist guerrillas is progressing.

Asked labor to hold wage demands within the bounds of productivity increases and appealed to business to hold the price line or even cut prices.

Said he knows of no agreement with the Soviet Union that involves Soviet acquiescence to American spy plane surveillance of Cuba.

Hoped that the Senate will pass the civil rights bill by the end of the month or the early part of June so that Congress can turn to such administration programs as the antipoverty and medical aid measures. Johnson said "some cynical people think there may be a deliberate slowdown in the Senate" and then went on to say that if there is one he would "seriously consider" calling Congress back after the Republican National Convention in July and the Democratic convention in August.

"I think that the people of this country are entitled to have a vote on these important measures," he declared. "This administration is entitled to have a vote on them, and I am going to ask the Congress to vote them up or down."

But the afternoon was too sunny and the President too intent on playing the showman to remain on a serious track.

Asked about his health—he suffered a severe heart attack in 1955—he blended medical data with a jest: "They tell me that my blood pressure is 125 over 78, that my heart is normal, and that I don't have any aches and pains. I feel fine. I get adequate rest and good pay, and plenty to eat."

Without any prompting at all, Johnson reminded his audience here and those across the country who heard him on radio and watched him on television—of the now-famous dog-eared incident by announcing "I have today accepted lifetime membership in the Vanderburgh Humane Society of Evansville, Indiana."

He even remembered to poke fun at his press secretary, bushy-haired George Reedy, by telling the children: "Someone even suggested you should be accredited to the White House. Here you are. I think that that person ought to remain anonymous, at least until he has his hair cut again."

And he concluded the affair by having the children gather round to have their pictures taken with him.

OU Address Cites 'Musts' Facing Nation

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—President Johnson said today "our challenge—not tomorrow but today—is to accomplish objectives which have eluded mankind since the beginning of time."

In a speech prepared for delivery at Ohio University, Johnson said the nation must:

"Bring equal justice to all our citizens."

"Abolish human poverty."

"Eradicate killing and crippling diseases, and lengthen the life span of man to 100 or 120 years."

"Eliminate illiteracy."

"End open bias and active bigotry."

"And, above all else, help to bring about a day when nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."

The visit to Athens was an interlude in a trip through Appalachia, Johnson's second such tour in 13 days, aimed principally at drumming up backing for his war on poverty program. Off from the White House lawn by helicopter at 8:14 a.m., the President flew first to Cumberland, Md., for a speech in which he depicted the antipoverty program as a campaign of the continuing American Revolution.

From here Johnson flies on to visit six states, meeting the unemployed, visiting farmers and promoting the antipoverty drive.

The Ohio University address carried on that effort, tying it in with the other goals which Johnson set for Americans.

Not in a day, not in a year will these goals be reached, Johnson said, "but if we begin the effort—if we approach the task with great enthusiasms and with cynicisms—these achievements will be the glory of your generation."

He said there is in front of young people today the promise of a greater tomorrow.

"It's a tomorrow that is brighter than yesterday and more challenging than today," he said.

"This is not a time for timid spirits and trembling spirits."

"It is a time for reaching out—to extend the boundaries of the brain and widen the dimensions of knowledge."

"We have it within our power to find the best of solutions to the worst of problems. We intend to do just that."

"Let your young hearts armed with new weapons join an old battle against ancient enemies—the enemies of poverty and disease, illiteracy and strife."

Johnson announced that a contract has been signed by the Area Redevelopment Administration to establish a regional development institute at Ohio University. This, he said, will make the university the focal point of economic development for the southeastern Ohio area.

He also announced that the Lorain-Elyria area of Ohio is being removed today from the list of industrial areas in the state with substantial unemployment. This, he said, leaves only one Ohio area in this category compared with 10 out of 11 industrial areas in 1961.

Johnson noted that Ohio University, which is celebrating its 160th anniversary year was the first institution of higher learning to be established west of the Alleghenies.

Major NATO Reform Eyed

Changes Since '49 To Be Reflected

PARIS (AP)—Major reforms in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization reportedly will be urged at the spring meeting of the alliance's foreign ministers in the Hague next week.

The proposals reflect the wide political and military changes since 1949, when NATO was created to rally war-ravaged Western Europe in common defense against the threat of Communist aggression.

One possible effect would be to diminish the role of the United States and Britain in the 15-nation alliance.

In the forefront of those seeking a major shakeup in the NATO structure is French President Charles de Gaulle, who has long chafed under what he considers the alliance's Anglo-Saxon leadership. Informed sources said Wednesday that French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville will not make any specific recommendations.

But Couve de Murville is expected to expound De Gaulle's views, and West Germany and Italy may join France in seeking a larger voice in NATO, reflecting their postwar resurgence.

Officials doubt that any hard decisions will emerge next week. They say some questions raised may be taken up at a special meeting of the NATO defense ministers in July.

The only formal action likely in the Hague is an announcement that Manlio Brosio, Italy's ambassador to France, will succeed Dirk U. Stikker of the Netherlands as NATO secretary-general. Brosio formerly was Italy's ambassador in Washington. Stikker has announced he will resign Aug. 1 because of his health.

Sources in Paris said some members of the alliance—not necessarily France—will urge closer coordination between NATO's military and political planners. They may recommend transfer of the alliance's top military body, the standing group, from Washington to Paris, where the civilian permanent council sits.

HST Gets Billet Reserved For Distinguished Guests

WASHINGTON (AP) — History takes an intriguing turn today as Harry S. Truman, on the eve of his 80th birthday, heads into town and toward a billet at Blair House, the mansion for the nation's most distinguished guests.

Well does the former president know this famous old home on Pennsylvania Avenue. It was there he lived in the early 1950s while the sagging White House was being rebuilt from top to bottom. And it was there that wild Puerto Rican revolutionaries stormed the door in a bloody but unsuccessful attempt to assassinate him.

President Johnson figured it is not every day that a former president about to turn 80 hits town. So he invited Truman to stay at the Blair House, which is usually reserved for kings, queens and oil-rich sheiks.

The President telephoned advance birthday greetings to Truman Wednesday.

He began the conversation with a jest, saying: "I wanted to call collect, but Lady Bird wouldn't let me. I only have change enough for three minutes."

"I will tell you what I will do," replied Truman. "I will accept it as collect."

Johnson told Truman he was "one of our greatest national assets" and added: "When you blow out those candles, Mr. President, I hope you think of all the lights you have turned on during 80 years. They are still burning in Greece and Turkey and Western Europe and the Far East and in the hearts of your countrymen."

After lunching and sprucing up at the Blair House, Truman had a date tonight with District of Columbia Masons. At a dinner he is to get the Grand Master's Award for distinguished service.

Friday Truman speaks at a luncheon of the National Press Club and then foregoes a dinner with members of the old Truman senatorial investigating committee. This was the committee which, in its quiet way did so much to keep the U.S. war effort on the beam during World War II.

Glenn Makes No Plans for His Future

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., loser in his first try at politics, says there are a number of things he might do now but he hasn't made any plans yet.

"I might go back to the Manned Spacecraft Center or back to the Marine Corps, or there is a possibility of the two," he said Wednesday.

Glenn got more than 205,000 votes in losing to Sen. Stephen M. Young in Tuesday's Ohio Democratic senatorial primary election despite being forced to withdraw because of a disabling injury.

"It is very gratifying to know so many people think well of us," he said Wednesday in commenting on the outcome of the election. "We appreciate the support even though we withdrew."

Glenn said his health is improving. "The doctors are confident I will recover completely," he said, "but it probably will be late summer or fall before I am 100 per cent cured. I can't be sure."

Glenn suffered an injury to his lower ear when he fell against a bathtub in his Columbus, Ohio, apartment in February. He was forced to withdraw from the senatorial primary when it was seen that recovery would be prolonged.

Sheppard Ruling Hinted for June

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — U. S. District Judge Carl A. Weinman says a ruling in the Sam Sheppard case may be forthcoming in June.

Weinman indicated as much Wednesday after another routine, pretrial conference here in prolonged efforts by Sheppard's attorneys to free the Cleveland life-terminer from Ohio Penitentiary.

The judge is studying briefs submitted by the attorney general's office and from Sheppard's lawyers who claim his constitutional rights were violated at his 1954 trial for the murder of his wife.

Airliner Fall Fatal to 44

Plane Plunges Into Frisco Hills

CONCORD, Calif. (AP)—Forty-four persons were killed today in the crash of a Pacific Airlines plane in foothill country 40 miles east of San Francisco.

An airlines spokesman said the plane carried 40 passengers, a crew of three, and a Federal Aviation Agency observer.

The twin-engine Fairchild F27 was Flight 733. It originated in Reno.

Sheriff's Sgt. Louis Skuse reported from the crash scene, on a ranch 10 miles east of Concord, that there were no survivors.

George M. Galvin, assistant to the airlines president, said Capt. Ernest Clark was the pilot. The first officer was R. Anderson and the stewardess Marge Schafer.

A Tasajero rancher, Gordon Rassmussen, said the "plane exploded into small bits. There wasn't a piece larger than a foot in diameter, except for the landing gear, after it hit."

Rassmussen said he saw the plane coming in and that it "faltered, there was a puff of smoke and it crashed a mile from my ranch."

The air controller's office at Oakland International Airport said the plane abruptly disappeared from its radar scopes.

Sheriff's officers closed off the area where wreckage was scattered widely.

The wreckage did not burn.

Press Probing Defended By California Solon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. John E. Moss, who heads the House subcommittee on government information, has taken issue with a State Department spokesman's criticism of the press' probing into foreign policy.

The California Democrat said an interview Wednesday that "the nation's foreign policy is endangered far more by lack of understanding than by exploitation by the press."

President Stops Briefly At Lockbourne Air Base

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — President Johnson arrived by jet at the Strategic Air Command's Lockbourne Air Force Base at 11:02 a.m., (EST) today.

He prepared to leave immediately by helicopter for a speech at Ohio University, Athens, 75 miles southeast of here.

Twenty minutes after arrival, the President and his party began the helicopter journey to the university, joined by Gov. and Mrs. James A. Rhodes.

But before that, a crowd estimated by air base officials at about 3,000 surged around the President, and he shook hands with scores of people. Beside him was his daughter, Lynda Bird, attired in a two-piece green dress. She is accompanying him on his tour of the Appalachia area. The President wore his Texas hat.

Many students were in the welcoming crowd. Some carried signs reading "Ohio State University Young Democrats for LBJ" and "Bury Goldwater."

It was warm and windy on the base when the presidential jet arrived.

Before the helicopter takeoff, the President told the crowd: "I know we will profit from what we see, and hear today." He called his visit "a trip to meet the people."

"God bless you," cried an Ohioan. (Continued on Page Two)

World Communism Appears Fully Split

AP Special Correspondent By WILLIAM L. RYAN

New developments in the Moscow-Peking dispute make virtually inescapable the conclusion that communism is finally and irrevocably split into two main camps.

Premier Khrushchev is under pressure to call an international Communist conference in June or July in a last effort to avert the division. But it is likely such a meeting would only confirm that the split is a fact.

Red-ruled Rumania has been trying feverishly to mediate the dispute but seems about ready to give up.

The Romanian party's April statement on the schism between a Red Chinese contention that "in conditions now prevailing in the Communist movement, a split both on the international plane and within various parties becomes necessary and unavoidable." The party said what Peking is doing "means to call for a split."

Infuriated, Khrushchev's Soviet party has delivered two new Sunday punches at the Red Chinese, both on the same theme:

Red China is trying to break out of isolation and throw its weight around in capitalist countries. It turned heavy propaganda artillery on Chinese pretensions to leadership of a new world bloc.

The Soviet party fired a barrage on this subject in the March issue of its theoretical journal, Kommunist. It renewed the attack in the journal's latest issue, out this week.

Kommunist accused the Chinese last month of trying to set up an "intermediate zone" which, by implication, would regard the Soviet Union and the United States with equal hostility.

This week Kommunist accused the Chinese of playing up to capitalists in Western Europe and Japan and dealing with governments which are members of Western alliances.

The Chinese idea, say the Russians, is that Communists should zero in on the United States as the main enemy, and that thus it is possible to seek support even among U.S. allies.

The Russians insist this is wrong, that not only the United States is the enemy, but all "imperialists."

The Russians, to seem to conclude that Peking has passed the point of no return in the dispute. Moscow accuses Peking of putting together its own program for world revolution in a "25-point platform" counterposed against the Soviet plan for global victory.

This "frankly anti-Soviet" Chinese program, says Kommunist, exploits national prejudices, sets race against race and East against West, regardless of Communist or capitalist rule.

LOCAL MANAGER — Clayton Wise, 119 Dunmore Road, manager of the Circleville Cussins & Fearn Store, is prepared for special observance of the firm's 71st Anniversary. Wise came here about a year ago after serving as an assistant manager at Athens. He and his wife have two daughters and one son.

Cussins & Fearn Store Set For Anniversary Observance

Cussins & Fearn Co., statewide hardware and houseware merchants with a store on W. Main St. here, will celebrate the company's 71 years of progress starting tomorrow.

According to Clayton Wise, local store manager, the observance will be in the form of a month long sale.

A special feature is the opportunity for anyone to register in the store for Anniversary awards. Prizes are being offered statewide, including an expense paid vacation for two to the New York World's Fair via TWA jet airliner. Registrants have nothing to do or buy. Also available are a limited quantity of free TWA jet airliner plastic model airplanes to children visiting the store when accompanied by a parent.

Cussins & Fearn is an Ohio organization originally started in Columbus back in 1893 when William A. Fearn and Charles D. Cussins formed a partnership and opened a small hardware store.

In the beginning business was conducted both in the store and from a horse drawn cart driven throughout Central Ohio by Mr. Fearn. Later catalogs were distributed.

In an effort to further improve service, the first branch store outside Columbus was opened in Chillicothe in 1927. Many more followed, with the store in Circleville opening in 1928.

Today the firm has 39 stores in Ohio. Only two years ago a new Buckeye Mart division was formed by the parent company, and now five of these department stores are in operation with locations in Fremont, Fostoria, Wooster, Mt. Vernon and Lancaster. Plans for further expansion and improvements, to suit the growing needs of Ohio's population, are constantly under consideration.

C & F purchases about 60 per cent of its for-sale merchandise from Ohio suppliers and manufacturers and sells only through Ohio outlets. More than a thousand people are employed by the entire organization during its present peak period.

"Over three months have been spent in the planning and preparation for this event," manager Wise said.

President . . .

(Continued from Page One) elderly woman as the President shook her hand. A man with an AFL - CIO sign was in the crowd, and he yelled, "I'm voting for you."

Lynda Bird spoke to the crowd first and told them she had "never seen so many friendly people."

The President walked the entire length of the crowd in front of a 300-foot bunting stretched on the apron of the landing strip. The Washington press corps accompanying the president made the trip to Athens in two helicopters.

Making the trip in other planes were members of the governor's Cabinet, including Finance Director Richard Krabach, Welfare Director Denver White, Development Director George Wilson, Personnel Director Wayne Ward, and these other directors: Agriculture, John Stackhouse; natural resources, Fred Mori; and highway safety, Warren Nelson.

At Athens, a crowd began gathering as early as 5 a. m. near the main campus green where an improvised platform had been erected for the President's speech.

Security was tight. The secret service confiscated a rifle a student was cleaning in his dormitory room late Wednesday night. It was described as a precautionary measure. No arrest was made.

Buildings along the one mile motorcade route in Athens were closed. The crowd, mostly Ohio University students, jammed against the rope holding them back from the speaker's platform. University police expected the crowd to grow to 40,000.

Scandinava Awaits Khrushchev

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP)—It's to be a busy season for Soviet Premier Khrushchev the traveler. This weekend he is arriving in Egypt for a three-week stay. Next month he comes to Scandinavia for two weeks.

Officials will keep an eye on how things are handled in Egypt as they plan step by step how to conduct Khrushchev's long-delayed visit to this area. He is coming here at a convivial time, and not a policeman in Denmark, Sweden or Norway will be idle.

Scandinavians are independent people with a strong dislike of being pushed around. They don't like forming into orderly lines, they have a profound belief in the principle of leave me alone and they object to rules. It's not an attitude likely to make a security officer happy in his work.

And Khrushchev will tour Scandinavia at the most relaxed time of the year—a time when police are inclined to wink at gay goings-on which reach a climax in the bonfires and party revels of midsummer night.

"We will be taking no chances none at all," says one senior Danish officer, "and particularly during the midsummer celebrations on and around June 21."

A veritable iron curtain of security will be thrown around Khrushchev from the moment he sets foot in Denmark.

The visit is widely regarded here as symbolizing a slowly relaxing tension in the cold war. Seven years ago plans for a similar tour foundered in a wave of bitterness, with the Russians complaining of a Scandinavian press vendetta against their leader.

This time the voices raised in protest are few.

Officials say they do not expect Khrushchev to make any overt attempt at swinging Scandinavia toward the Soviet camp, although he will certainly turn on his persuasive powers in private talks with prime ministers.

Denmark and Norway are solidly wedded to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and Sweden is a jealous guardian of the neutral life.

Khrushchev will be in Denmark June 17-21, in Sweden June 22-26 and Norway June 27-July 1.

Leaping before Looking

In the mad rush to get rich quick on the Canadian ore find, some people have been phoning the Toronto stock exchange saying they want to buy shares in "that Timmins thing everyone is talking about."

If anything were needed to show abysmal ignorance about stocks and shares, it is this. Stock exchanges do not, of course, buy and sell shares for individuals in this way; that is the business of their broker members.

What is interesting is the reactions of some of these disappointed fortune hunters. They did not believe the polite explanations given them.

"You're trying to stop me making money," they said angrily.

It is sad to think how quickly these days ignorance reacts in furious fanaticism. The gap between the two is leaped with the speed of an electric spark, it seems.

World's Fair Not 'Official'

By HILMI TOROS
(For Hal Boyle)
NEW YORK (AP)—Is it really the World's Fair?
Michelangelo's "Pieta" is there. So are Goya's two flawless "Maja" paintings from Spain, the white pristine minarets and a 1,200-year-old delicate fresco from the Sudan and the architectural gem of a dynastic Chinese temple.
These—coupled with rum and wildly decorated straw hats—enrich a fairgoer's jaunt to the international section of the New York World's Fair.
But a visitor—perhaps a bit fatigued after strolling through 139 exhibits—can also ponder: Where are the others? The "cheers" from Great Britain, the "Mona Lisa" smile of the French government, the sweets of Damascus, Syria, or a sign that reads: "From Russia, with love."

Why aren't they here?
"No money," is the explanation of some countries. Other nations say the fair isn't "official."
"We planned to come. But later the Cabinet decided we couldn't possibly afford it," a spokesman for Turkey said. "Rent alone would have cost almost $200,000."
At the moment a square foot of Flushing Meadows rents for $3 a year, compared with the $1.10 of the Hannover, Germany fair. In the 1939 New York fair, no foreign government paid space rental for pavilions smaller than 10,000 square feet.

This year the rent for the Belgian pavilion—the largest of all foreign entries with 164,811 square feet—is nearly half a million dollars.
To economize, Austria fashioned its A-shaped building at home. The Sierra Leone pavilion was constructed so it can be shipped to Africa for use as a public building when the fair closes in 1966.
Great Britain and 30 other nations, including the Western European countries, didn't enter the fair since the lawmaker of the world's "official" fairs in Paris ruled that the exhibit was not "official" but strictly private.
The Bureau of International Expositions so advised its 31 members.

Inside Track on Cuba

The Republican Critical Issues Council, headed by Milton Eisenhower, earned its salt the other day when it issued a report urging Washington to lift its curbs on anti-Castro Cuban raiders and to recognize a free Cuban government in exile. But, knowing Lyndon Johnson's "can-do" propensities, it is extremely likely that if there is any Election Day yardage to be made by disposing of the Fidel Castro threat without risking nuclear war, the Administration will move in time to get that benefit for itself. In which case, Milton Eisenhower would probably not even be thanked for an assist on the play.

While I have no means of knowing what goes on in Lyndon Johnson's mind when he thinks about Castro, I do know that anti-Castro forces have made easier access to "Johnson men" in the White House than they ever had to Kennedy men. Last fall, the Cuban refugees were entirely without hope; they were even talking about forming a "Cubans for Goldwater" committee. But this sort of rebellion has died down. Now there are stories, no doubt leaked by CIA people, that underground activity will soon move from a clandestine phase to a more open one inside Cuba, and that the U.S. will look the other way as supplies are dropped to them from the air or smuggled in over the beaches.

This may be pure rumor, but it stands to reason. But when will anything decisive really begin to happen? The question of dealing with Castro, given Lyndon Johnson's habit of moving only after all the hazards have been counted, will certainly be one of timing. The State Department, ever timorous, worries about Khrushchev's attitude. The big fear of John F. Kennedy was that Khrushchev might counter in Berlin if anything were to be done about Castro in Cuba, and there was reason for this fear. However, since the missile crisis the Russians have had to reckon with the peasant's agricultural lowdown, the rupture of good relations with Red China, and the seething unrest in East Europe, which has forced Khrushchev's switch to "goulash" diplomacy. Khrushchev is not in a position to adventure anywhere.

It would be quite in line with Lyndon Johnson's character, then, to time a move against Castro after the evidence of the next Russian and East European harvests is in. The prospects are that these harvests will be poor.
The Soviets are undertaking an agonized reappraisal of their farm policies. Debating all manner of means of getting more out of the peasants and the Kolkhoze managers short of a restoration of capitalistic farming, at the February meeting of the Soviet Central Committee on Agriculture, Khrushchev asked for drastic measures to halt a mass migration to the cities of skilled Russian farmers. This sort of thing does not betoken a problem that can be solved overnight. The opportune time for a move against Castro would thus be after the Soviets have had to appeal once more to the West for shipments of wheat, which should come sometime after next August and conveniently before the U. S. November election.

What the Republicans are up against in their efforts to use foreign policy items against Johnson is that they are dealing with a man who has uncommon strategic sense. The L.B.J. style in the Senate was to make exceedingly accurate estimates of strength and weakness before moving. Bobby Baker, Johnson's Chief of Staff in those days, may be in bad repute now, but as one of Baker's friends still insists, "at least Bobby could count." The L.B.J. predilection for advisers who can do accurate strategic arithmetic will certainly manifest itself in any dealings with Castro.

So Milton Eisenhower and the Republicans may well gain a their nails. They are right in urging that we let the anti-Castro Cubans go to work, but L.B.J. is in a position to steal the Republicans' thunder at the precise time when it is calculated to do the Administration the most political good.

By John Chamberlain

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

ASKED one elderly lady of another at a Darien dinner party, "Doesn't it embarrass you to see your husband flirting so shamelessly with all the young unmarried daughters of your old friends?"
"Oh, I just let him have his innocent pleasure," said the wife tolerantly. "He's like a puppy chasing automobiles. He wouldn't know what to do if he caught one. He just wants to bark at them a little."

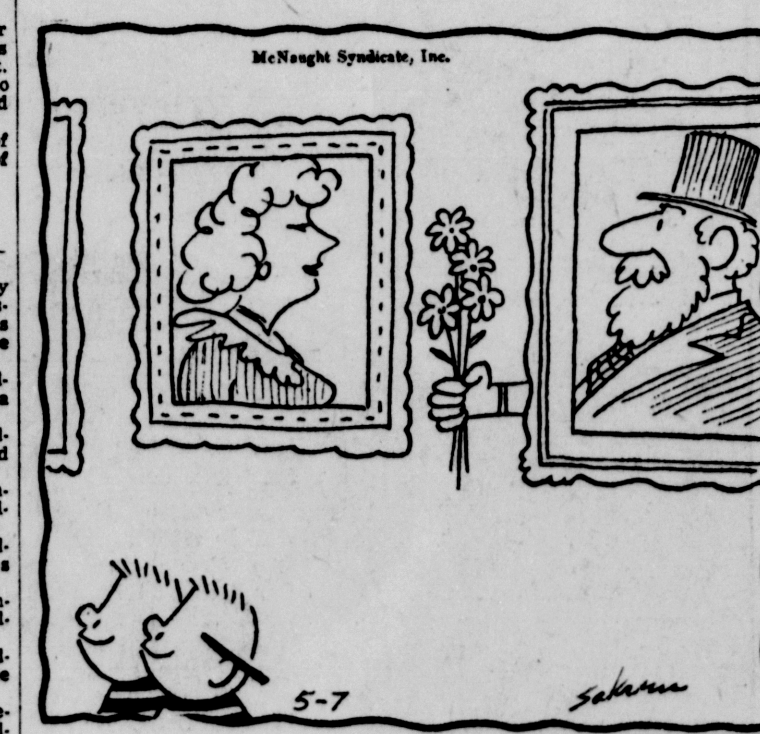

Buddy Hackett encountered a famous golf pro—a man who spent his entire year on the circuit, playing in one tournament after another. "Do you really enjoy golf better than hard liquor and beautiful girls?" asked Hackett. "You've got me figured wrong," explained the golf pro. "The reason I plod through all these tournaments is to get enough money for just that hard liquor and beautiful girls."

Mrs. Hatfield McCoy: Sure. Tell me a couple.

U.N.-French Accord Developing

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General U Thant and President Charles de Gaulle of France seem to be having what the one would call a reconciliation and the other a rapprochement.

So it appears from the warm word is Thant exchanged with French officials on a four-day visit to Paris last week.

The words haven't always been so warm. For years, France has been standoffish toward the United Nations while the minority here on such questions as independence for Algeria, France's base in Bizerte, Tunisia, and U.N. intervention in the Congo.

France refused financial support to the U.N. force in the Congo. French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville boycotted the General Assembly. The French delegation, while attending, remained silent during debate.

On April 11, 1961, De Gaulle announced that France would not contribute men or money to future undertakings of the "disunited nations." He called the United Nations "riotous and scandalous" and said its officers had "the ambition to intervene in all kinds of matters."

The late Dag Hammarskjöld was still secretary-general then. But Thant managed to offend the French after he succeeded Hammarskjöld in November 1961.

Thant blandly commented last September that "French foreign policy is based on the conviction that there is no danger of the Soviet Union launching a nuclear attack on Western Europe." He said France felt the North Atlantic Treaty Organization might not be needed and, if NATO was needed, U.S. participation might not be.

In Paris, French sources replied that Thant had no business commenting on a member government's policy.

But when De Gaulle learned Thant was coming to Paris for a coordination meeting with executives of U.N. - affiliated agencies, he invited him to lunch. De Gaulle's prostate operation kept them from meeting, but they exchanged warm notes.

Thant lunched with Premier George Pompidou and dined with Foreign Minister Couve de Murville. In a toast, Couve de Murville credited Thant with "a sense of reality" and said France is gratified at the cooperation that has been established between you and us."

Thant replied that French policy was based on humanity and realism.

Two days later, Thant told French diplomatic correspondents that he wasn't worried about France's Congo bill because France was showing confidence in the United Nations.

On troubled Southeast Asia, Thant sounded like De Gaulle himself, explaining that a military solution had failed and political means were needed.

When Thant was Burma's U.N. ambassador, he advocated a neutralized Viet Nam. Now De Gaulle is proposing the same idea.

Taxman Given Shirt, Panties, too

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A Southern California school teacher did more than protest to state income tax officials that they were taking the shirt off her back. She sent along her panties.

The disgruntled lady, officials report, made out her 1963 income tax check on a pair of panties and sent them to the Franchise Tax Board.

Those gentlemen gulped, then sent the novel check to a bank for payment. The gentlemen at the bank gulped, then honored the payment. The lady was not identified.

Daily Calorie Intake Need Is Trimmed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top nutrition experts cut back the recommended daily calorie intake for Americans — and blamed easy living.

They also included in their figuring the rather substantial intake of calories through alcoholic beverages — recognizing the afternoon beer and the before-dinner cocktail.

For the moderately active, 145-pound, 25-year-old American male, the daily calorie quota has been dropped by 300—from a 1,958 recommendation of 3,200 calories to 2,900.

The Food and Nutrition Board of the National Academy of Sciences — National Research Council — the panel that decides minimums for vitamins and maximums for calories — cited the cuts in its new recommended dietary allowances.

It called for a 200-calorie drop in the daily quota for its "reference woman"—a 25-year-old, 128-pound female who in 1958 was allotted 2,300 calories, but should now get along on 2,100.

The report said that while alcohol in small quantities can provide energy, a high alcohol diet displaces important nutrients and accounts at least in part for the metabolic diseases that come with alcoholism.

The board said it was lowering the daily calorie count out of concern for the ease of modern American living and the decreased physical activity.

Russians Open Canal For Emergency Drain

MOSCOW (AP) — The vast lake created by the landslide in the Samarkand region began draining today through an emergency canal, the government news agency Tass said.

The landslide, April 24, blocked the Zeravshan River at a canyon between two mountains 100 miles north of the ancient city of Samarkand. First reports said there was danger the landslide-dam might give way and flood towns and villages in the valley including Samarkand.

One look inside our new Kelvinator Trimwall shows how much mother loves her family.

"My wife is a good cook and wonderful mother. It shows in so many ways. A good example is the rich store of family meals and snacks she always has on hand for us. A lot of love and happy labor went into that chiffon pie, the casserole and fruit bowl."

"She deserves to have the time and work-saving conveniences of the finest 'No-Frost' refrigerator built today, our big new Kelvinator Trimwall. It's 17-cubic-foot big—that's twice the size of our old refrigerator and it fits the same floor space. But size isn't the real story; the wonderful advantages of Kelvinator's new-type cabinet construction are used to give us safe, more uniform temperatures throughout both freezer and refrigerator. Believe it or not, we get this safer foodkeeping at a lower operating cost because of the efficiency of the new walls. This new construction is also designed to provide greater strength and rigidity; truly this cabinet was built to last a lifetime."

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

For the Sinners!

DEAR ABBY: You performed a great service by printing the letter signed "SINNERS" in your column. Not all Californians know that their Civil Code provides that unmarried couples who have been living together as man and wife, and are eligible to be married (that is, not married to anyone else, and of legal age), may present themselves to a minister, explain the situation, obtain a certificate of marriage issued by that minister, and have the wedding recorded in the church records. No license is necessary, and there is no waiting period or publicity.

REV. E.E.
DEAR REVEREND: Thank you for your letter. I wish more people realized that churches are not for the fellowship of the pure and holy alone, but rather for those who know themselves to need the help, forgiveness and love that God is continually offering to all of us. If one has a problem of this kind, the place where he will find the least judgment and the greatest understanding and acceptance is at his nearest parsonage, rectory or synagogue.

DEAR ABBY: I am 12 and have done a little baby-sitting in the neighborhood for 50 cents an hour. Yesterday I sat with my two little brothers for four hours while my mother went downtown. I told my father I thought I should get paid. He asked me how much, and I told him only 25 cents an hour, so he owed me a dollar. Then he figured out that the food I ate that day cost $1.10 and the insurance policy he paid for came to 50 cents, so I owed him 60 cents. Do you think this was fair?

UNPAID

DEAR UNPAID: No. A 12-year-old should not have to pay for the food she eats at home. Neither should she "charge" her parents for looking after younger sister and brothers.

DEAR ABBY: I am having a difference of opinion with someone and hope you can settle it. Is it true that the best chefs in the world never TASTE anything—that they can tell if something is properly seasoned simply by SMELLING it? I don't believe it. Yet I can't prove that this person who made the above statement is wrong and I am right. Can you help me?

M Mc

DEAR M Mc: I can't qualify as one of the best chefs in the world, but I will let you know what THEY say after I have heard from them.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WAR-DO": Sometimes it is better to put off until tomorrow what you are likely to botch today.

Johnson Off On New Tour Of Appalachia

Cumberland was the first stop on a 30-hour tour that will take Johnson into six states for meetings with the unemployed, visits with farmers, and public appeals for recruits in the "war on poverty."

In remarks prepared for his first formal audience, outside the court house in mountain-rimmed Cumberland, Johnson said:

"I come here to ask your help in carrying forward the American revolution."

The first objective in meeting today's enemies, he said, "is to free 30 million Americans from the prison of poverty."

He added: "I know what poverty means to people. I have been unemployed. I have shined shoes and worked on a highway crew for a dollar a day. This has taught me some of the meaning of poverty."

Johnson wants Congress to vote a billion-dollar program to attack the causes of poverty in the Appalachian states, plus similar sums to carry the antipov-erty cause into all parts of the nation.

But he said "it is not enough for the government to propose programs" or for Congress to pass laws.

He said: "We will not win our war against poverty until the conscience of the entire nation is aroused. We will not succeed until every citizen regards the sufferings of neighbors as a call to action."

Accepting an invitation to accompany Johnson on the foray into Maryland was Sen. Daniel B. Brewster who will oppose segregationist Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama in Maryland's May 19 Democratic primary.

This latest trek marks the President's first trip into the Deep South. He'll stay overnight in Atlanta, where his reception will be carefully gauged by political observers, then make a final stop Friday at Gainesville, Ga., before returning to the White House.

Commission Plans Toll Road Checkup

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Turnpike Commission has decided to send "observers" to 16 toll road rest stops when the tourist season starts May 15 to see if the public likes the new look.

The commission reported Tuesday that it will have $1 million worth of improvements ready when the season opens.

The improvements include renovation of restaurants and gift shops at four plazas, remodeling of restrooms at nine plazas, modernization of air conditioning at 14 plazas, and addition of trailer ports at four plazas and an extra dining room at one plaza.

U.S. 'Mother of Year' Is Bundle of Energy

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Cora Vjertaas Stavig, America's Mother of the Year for 1964, is a gracious bundle of energy who found love in her parents' home and took it with her into her own.

"There was a happiness there, a spiritual richness that kept the family a close one," she said. "It has continued in my home."

Mrs. Stavig, who at 63 still loves to ice skate, believes her home life as a child laid the foundation for her selection Wednesday as Mother of the Year. She was named by the American Mothers Committee from among nominees from the 50 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico.

She is the wife of Dr. Lawrence Stavig, president of Augustana College, a Lutheran school in Sioux Falls, S.D. She has raised four sons, and in the words of the citation:

"Foreign students from Hong Kong to Sierre Leone attend Augustana College and Mrs. Stavig becomes the foster mother of each of these."

Mrs. Stavig was born in Mayville, N.D., and met her husband while they were students at St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minn. Soon they will celebrate their 40th wedding anniversary.

While her husband goes about his college duties, Mrs. Stavig busies herself entertaining visiting lecturers, faculty and students.

She lectures occasionally, and also serves as a marriage counselor.

The advice she gives most often to young married couples "is that it's very, very important to have the right sense of values."

"What used to be black or white has now turned for so many people into a shade of grey," she said. "This is true even on the very high levels of our society."

Mrs. Stavig believes in discipline, a "firm but fair discipline," and recalls that she was a "sparing but effective spanker" when her sons were young.

Her sons are Dr. Paul Stavig, an Air Force lieutenant colonel and hospital commander at Otis Air Force Base, Mass.; Dr. Richard Stavig, professor of English at Kalamazoo (Mich.) College; David Stavig, an industrial engineer of Sioux Falls, and Dr. Mark Stavig, now doing post-doctoral research at Harvard. All are married.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Here is the official U. S. Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather:

Showers which have been lingering in the Midwest for several days finally moved eastward into Ohio Wednesday night.

Most of the state reported overcast skies this morning and temperatures ranged from 63 at Zanesville to 69 at Findlay. Rainfall amounts mostly were very light.

There were to be scattered showers and possible thunderstorms over Ohio today as moist unstable air covered the state. Afternoon temperatures were to be mostly in the upper 70s and lower 80s and the humidity was to be higher than during the past several days.

The showers may continue intermittently tonight and Friday but it will be slightly cooler tomorrow, especially in the northern counties.

New Spacemen Getting Itchy For Action

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The fledgling group of astronauts has reached the halfway mark in classroom training and most of them are itching to get started in spaceship familiarization.

Capt. Donn F. Eisele, 33, a Columbus, Ohio, native said: "I'll be glad to get this over. I'm looking forward to getting to work. Classroom work is sort of passive and I would like to be more active."

Capt. William A. Anders, one of the few astronauts who was not a test pilot, said he was looking forward to spaceship training, too.

Both men were stationed at Kirtland Air Force Base, Albuquerque, N.M., at the time of their selection last Oct. 18. Fourteen were named at that time.

They started training Feb. 1 and Donald K. Slayton, chief of astronaut training, said book work would be finished about the middle of June or early July.

After classroom study comes the training usually associated with astronauts—dizzy rides on a centrifuge at Johnstown, Pa., weightlessness flight in a KC135 airplane and desert and tropical survival training.

Also to be included in the rigid schedule are ejection seat rides, helicopter training, parachute jumping, and hours and hours of studying Gemini and Apollo spacecrafts.

Because this group is generally given the best chance to be first to the moon, classroom work has been heavy on geology with 58 hours scheduled.

Flight mechanics require 40 hours, guidance and navigation 34, Gemini onboard computer 24, astronomy 15, digital computers 12, rocket propulsion systems 12, physics of the upper atmosphere and space 12, medical aspects of space flight 12, aerodynamics 8, communications 8, and global meteorology 4.

Flowering Trees of April Bring Real Magic to Laurelville Park

By MRS. ELIZABETH JONES
Mayor John Spencer says that when he goes to different cities in Ohio and mentions the fact that he hails from Laurelville, strangers immediately identify the little town by its park.

And Mayor Spencer says he finds himself feeling pretty proud when he is as far away as Dayton and somebody says: "Laurelville — that's the place with the nice park." It's just a little park located in a triangle of land between Route 180 and the levee that keeps Laurel Creek from washing the road away. But it is a busy little area, conveniently located and dreamed up some 16 or 18 years ago by public spirited men for the pleasure of the community.

On the Sunday of April 26, the park was at its loveliest. All 14 flowering crabs were in blossom. Every twig and branch of each tree looked as though they had been sprayed with a flocking of bright pink flowers. The air was delightful with their fragrance.

IN FACT everybody you saw on that Sunday asked: "Have you seen the Laurelville Park with the trees in bloom?" And if you said "no" you were told that you'd better take a look.

Mrs. Fern Smith, who with her husband occupies a trailer adjacent to the park, told me the park's history as she recalled it. When the late Mayor Lou McClelland first conceived the idea he enlisted the interest of all Laurelville civic leaders. And before too long a community club had been formed and donations big and small came from Laurelville citizens and surrounding territory.

PATH IN FAIRYLAND — For one week a year the park in Laurelville is Fairyland. That's when the flowering crab trees that border the walk to the shelterhouse are in bloom. The rest of the time the area is a busy recreational center full of picnicking groups. This year the trees were veritable clouds of pink and the fragrance was "de-licious."

Donors' names were imprinted in the cement blocks of the walk that leads to the shelterhouse and in the cement around the pump. Some donors pledged monthly payments.

On a big block in front of the shelterhouse there is a date — May 1948. The names in the block include: L. A. McClelland, mayor; T. Rose, clerk; W. Dumm, treasurer; W. Sheets president of Council; G. Fox, L. Bigham, R. Hilliard, G. Rose and P. Allen.

Not just citizens but business places and organizations donated, too. The Salt Creek Valley Grange and Colerain Evangelical United Brethren Church were among groups that felt this was a most worthwhile project.

"How is the park maintained?" we asked the mayor. He said the city street commissioner had charge of grass mowing and shelterhouse cleaning. Painting and all repair work is

Hirsch Table Setting Book Good Reading

Hostesses and arrangers alike will profit by reading "The Art of Table Setting and Flower Arrangement."

The book was written by Sylvia Hirsch. It is beautifully illustrated with pictures of arrangements made by the author.

Sylvia Hirsch, incidentally, has won honors galore in the garden club world. The Federated Garden Clubs of New York State awarded her the bronze medal for inspirational leadership in garden club work. She is a master flower show judge and an instructor in Flower Show Schools.

The book may be found at the Pickaway Public Library. There are chapters on contemporary dining, appointments, table coverings and design.

THE BOOK takes up etiquette and fashions. There's even a chapter on making your own containers. The section on exhibiting includes some advice on sportsmanship. There's even a chapter on judging.

Mrs. Hirsch is not without pride in her own work. The caption under one illustration reads — "Merrie Month of May: A Spring Luncheon. The overall setting is fresh and charming, the colors gay and harmonious. All appointments are related in color and agreeable in texture and spirit. The arrangement is good in scale, balance and proportion. Arranger, the author."

Well, we wouldn't exactly call Mrs. Hirsch's evaluation of her own work bragging. Let's just say she is not without pride in her ability.

Cydonia Now Catches Eye Of Gardeners

Cydonia or Japanese Flowering Quince is a common, early-blooming shrub found in just about every old garden.

This year it put on an especially fine show. Several new gardeners have asked about it. Blooming along with the early daffodils it may be found in a red variety or a bright salmon pink or in a shocking orange.

This is an ancient shrub brought from Asia. It is to be found in the Williamsburg and Mt. Vernon gardens where new plants are not allowed to grow.

WAYSIDE Gardens offers 11 varieties, some of which are rare. However, most Flowering Quinces around here are large and noble shrubs.

Some years Japanese Flowering Quince produces fruit. Yes, it is edible. We understand excellent jelly.

Suckers frequently appear around the shrub. To propagate Cydonia just dig these suckers and replant. Jennie Moss, Whisler storekeeper, has a fine specimen of Cydonia as we have seen. Planted behind her barn, it is visible at the crossroads in Whisler and had delighted everybody who saw it.

Cydonia, alas, is a quarrelsome color. Care should be taken not to plant it too close to Redbud or Bleeding Heart. This is a shrub that many gardeners are all too happy to share.

Low Growing Ajuga Good Ground Cover

Four inch spikes of blue flowering Ajuga were to be seen in the little May basket favors at the Pickaway County Garden Club Luncheon which preceded the flower show April 29.

Ajuga has for its common name, Bugle weed, but it is one of the few plants whose botanical name is heard far more often than its common one.

It is a perennial herbaceous plant of creeping habit. It is popular in rock gardens and the foreground of perennial borders.

It should be used as a ground cover more often than it is. It grows many places, including locations that are shady and not well drained.

ABOUT the last of April or the first of May it's four inch spikes of violet blue add considerably to the garden. It tolerates unfavorable conditions.

Its foliage is attractive later in the summer after the bloom is gone. Lately a purple leafed variety has become popular. It is known as Ajuga reptans astropurpurea.

Propagation is by lifting plants and separating them into rooted pieces.

Not at all rare, it is a modest flower — but if planted in patches is rather eye-catching.

FREQUENT PARK VISITORS — Frances McClelland (left) and Fern Smith often stroll through Laurelville's little park. Miss McClelland is the daughter of the late Mayor Lou McClelland and who spearheaded the park project some 18 years ago. Mrs. Smith and her husband live in a trailer adjacent to the park. Both recall the late mayor's vital interest in the park as a community project. Miss McClelland says her father saw flowering crab when he was traveling and decided that was just what the park in Laurelville needed. The flowering trees are in the background.

still provided for by donations. It is a busy place, this park. Visitors to Hocking County Hills pass it and remember it. Tables and benches are located in the shade for the pleasure of motorists who want a place to eat their picnic lunches.

The shelterhouse with its fireplaces at each end is much sought after by civic organizations and family reunion groups. Beforehand-registering is necessary if persons want to stage a reunion here.

Throughout the summer there will be band concerts, youth group picnics and 4-H shindigs. Everybody feels free to make use of this shady, pleasant little park.

The late Charles N. White was responsible, in large part, for the playground equipment. After his first donation, others followed his lead. Now the park has swings for tiny tots as well as for larger youngsters.

There is a high slide to try the mettle of even a courageous kid. There is a merry-go-round and a teeter-totter. But on April 26 of this year the functional, busy little area was more than a park. It was fairyland. The flowering crabs, of course, created the magic.

WE ASKED Miss Frances McClelland, daughter of the late mayor, who's idea the ornamental trees had been. She said her father had seen them in his travels and decided to have them in the park.

Miss McClelland said her father had always liked young people. This was proved when he built and operated Laurelville's popular skating rink. She supposed his love for youngsters had something to do with his idea for the park.

Until the day of his death the late mayor took a vital interest in the park.

His daughter recalls that on the morning of the day he died, he and members of the Laurelville police had cleaned and burned the weeds off the levee. Later in the day he transplanted a young crab from his yard to his beloved little park. That evening he died of a heart attack.

The park continues on as a source of pleasure to townspeople and their neighbors in the area outside town. It is a busy, folksy recreational center.

In constant use, the park is not just a tribute to the late mayor but to all the public spirited citizens whose initial donations spearheaded a needed recreational space.

It's a challenge and a source of pride to the present mayor and the city fathers who continue to see that the park is kept in ship-shape order. It's all this. But for a few days in spring, it's fairyland, too.

Garden Gossip

This is a mushroom year that will go down in history. On April 26 we saw two hunters bring in plastic bags bulging with their finds.

Sunday afternoon Dorothy Jones stopped by from a trip to Hocking County. She had plastic bags filled with mushrooms. Guessing roughly we'd say she had some eight pounds in all.

Later in the week, a neighbor, Kenny Azbell, called to say he was bringing us a supply of mushrooms because he had more than his family could eat. He brought us a quantity that really was a supply.

Kenny's a great mushroom man! After giving us the delicacies he said he thought he'd slip out to our woods and look around for more.

Jeff Lutz and his dad, Cecil, had good luck mushrooming. Later in the week Jeff came out by himself and not only filled his plastic bag but took off his sweater and made an enormous container which he lugged in from the woods.

Loring Valentine, E. Mound St., picked four pounds after he had been in the woods just a short time. He found 'em in the Bell woods and he told a neighbor he covered very little ground.

Virginia Lanier, Kingston, showed a neighbor her supply. She had more than seven pounds of mushrooms in her refrigerator.

But the story that tops 'em all is the one my husband told. A man brought 25 pounds of mushrooms into a restaurant in Chillicothe. The restaurant owner remarked that he had never before seen that many at once. A few minutes later another man arrived with mushrooms. He had 27 pounds.

On Friday afternoon Speeder Davis and Sherman Dresbach arrived to go mushrooming. I regaled them with stories of all the mushrooms to be found in the woods. They came back a couple of hours later with sacks and only one third full. Well good things cannot last forever.

Speeder Davis said he did not know who had found the champion big mushroom but he knew well that he had found the champion midget. Sure enough when it lay on the palm of his hand it was not an inch long. But its formation was perfect. I'd give it the prize for being the cutest one I ever saw.

Mushrooming is great sport but one can get into trouble. My pal and neighbor, Mildred Petty, strayed a mile too far in the wrong woods. Her daughter, Pat, an avid mushroomer was with her. The tragedy of the incident was that they had just discovered an out-of-this world patch where mushrooms were really thick. Mildred said while she apologized, Pat picked fast.

Friday afternoon Frank Fischer went mushrooming. We heard from a reliable source that he was "cussing made." He wasn't finding any. Well, as I said good things never last forever.

April 26 was the day the flowering crabs were at their best. Marvino Holderman on N. Court St. had a beautiful one.

Mrs. Dwight Rector, Sunshine Drive, told me her flowering crabs were extra beautiful this year. They were indeed.

Flowering crabs can be relied on for good spring performances. But this year they have been out of this world.

The George Sowers place has a flowering crab that everybody remarks about. They all want to know if I have noticed it. I have indeed.

The Charles P. Mowery Jr. place on Route 4 has a driveway planting which includes a bright red flowering quince and purple and white lilacs crowded together. Just a stunning effect!

Too bad more people did not get to the Pickaway County Garden Club Flower Show last week. It was held in the 4-H and Grange building. It was a most impressive event.

We really mean this. It was the sort of show that the Metropolitan Museum of Fine Arts in New York City would be proud to house.

We noticed people subconsciously lower their voices as they approached the exhibits. How about that for impressiveness!

It was "Big City" stuff. Even to a sprinkling of arrangements with hot house flowers.

Ruth Montelius showed an arrangement with a gorgeous spray of green orchids. I was told that Mrs. Ray Carroll had grown the orchids in her own greenhouse.

The flower show was staged with considerable class and I take back the things I said about backgrounds. This time the backgrounds added real distinction to the staging.

My fabulous friend, Mrs. Turney Pontius, took seven entries to the flower show and won seven ribbons. How about that!

Almond Shrub Is Waning In Popularity

One of the most cherished of early blooming shrubs is the dainty flowering almond.

It belongs to the Genus Prunus along with the plums, the almonds, the peaches, the apricots, the cherries, bird cherries and cherry laurels.

Flowering almond has pink double flowers up and down its branches. The bush seldom grows higher than 30 inches. It was well known in old gardens and a popular little shrub.

Right now its popularity seems to be on the wane. It is a modest shrub but a charming one and blooms along with blue bells, flowering crabs, bleeding hearts, pheasant eye narcissi, and creeping phlox.

IT IS NOT long lived like the flowering quince, but it is hardy and is easily divided at its root. The flowering almond like many of its relatives thrives in a limey soil, likes the sun and does well in deeply cultivated, well manured ground. Flowering almond may be obtained at a good many nurseries but digging and dividing seems to make it thrive. If you have a friend with flowering almond, she may divide with you without injuring her plant.

Potted Rose Is Nice Gift For Mom on Her Special Day

Giving mother roses on her day may not be a new idea, but presenting her with a fragrant bouquet on a living rose plant is a novel and a great gift idea. It surely will prove a more lasting and treasured remembrance.

Mom will not only appreciate her favorite rose and color on this special occasion, but she'll enjoy cutting her own bouquets for many years after the plant is transferred to the garden.

Local nurseries have "potted up" most of the rose favorites and have them growing and ready for gift-giving. Many of the plants will be displaying their best finery of flower and foliage.

Which ones will impress mother most? Only a top, prize-winning variety will do on her special day. Nurseries will be featuring the year's top choices, the 1964 All-America Roses — Granada and Saratoga.

BOTH of these extraordinary roses will make a prize present. Granada gives large, fragrant flowers in the startling color combination of scarlet, nasturtium and lemon yellow. The fragrant, big pure white blooms of Saratoga are equally exciting.

Orange-red Tropicana, delicate pink Royal Highness, and the deep reds John S. Armstrong and Christian Dior are a few other famous AARS winners that are certain to please.

Container, or potted roses are the closest thing to "instant roses" — and the easiest kind of transplant into the backyard. They have no catching up to do since their roots are established and the plant has already started growing.

To plant a container rose, simply remove the plant from the container by cutting down each side of a paper pot with a knife. (have metal containers slit at the sides at the nursery,

Brehmer Says

Folks who try to carry their Poinsettia over for another year should think about getting the dormant plant started to growing again.

Carried over poinsettias must be dried off and rested starting in early February. Now is the time to start its new growth.

If it is not rested, it will grow all right, but will not form red bracts at holiday time.

Poinsettias originated in Mexico where they have wet and dry seasons. The drying off rest period is to simulate the dry season.

If you have a zalea plants, they are not outdoor hardy in our locality. But they can be carried over outdoors from late May to the first cool snappy morning in September (they need to be chilled to set the buds for another year). At this time they are brought indoors and will bloom again and be a larger plant.

Gloxinias are very satisfactory house plants and can be carried over in much the same manner as tuberous begonias and cyclamen. Each of these have bulbs and also need to be rested from about early July until started up again in December.

in deeply cultivated, well manured ground.

Flowering almond may be obtained at a good many nurseries but digging and dividing seems to make it thrive. If you have a friend with flowering almond, she may divide with you without injuring her plant.

Turkey is a tempting feature for Mothers Day dinner, as heavy production fills supermarkets and invites lower prices this weekend.

Or lucky mothers who are being taken out to dinner may find it wise to buy at bargain prices and freeze them to serve say, on Fathers Day.

Other main courses attractively priced in most stores this weekend include broiler-fryers, beef, lamb and pork. Eggs continue to be another economy feature.

Beef attractions include ribs, round and sirloin steaks and roasts.

Pork loin roasts are a key feature in many shops. West Coast markets have shaved 2 to 3 cents a pound at wholesale. In the Midwest, bacon, spare-ribs and chops are in the spotlight.

Among eggs, large sizes off the best buy.

Produce counters are replete with spring offerings.

Fresh strawberries from early gardens in the Southwest are appearing at modest prices.

Watermelons are also available at lower prices than usual.

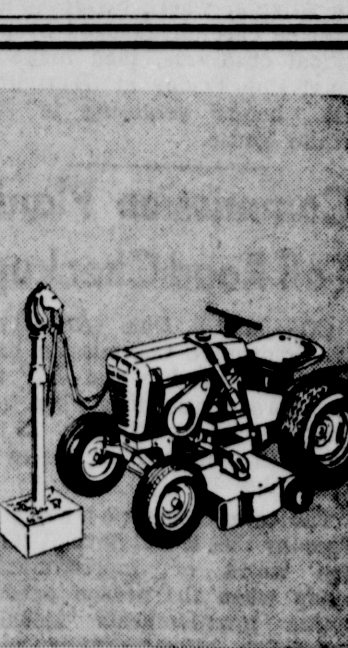

Cantaloupe and honeydews are other attractions, while limes, lemons, oranges, bananas, grapefruit, rhubarb and avocados compete for the shoppers' eye.

Among vegetables, green peppers, green beans, artichokes, corn, cucumbers, lettuce, onions, carrots and celery are top attractions.

THE NEW $75 U.S. Savings Bond on the market May 1 carries a likeness of the late President Kennedy, and under it a quotation from his inaugural, "Ask not what your country can do for you—ask what you can do for your country."

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sour war in Viet Nam is baffling American officials but, in trying to figure it out, they must be setting a record for think-tanks and look-sees.

Now President Johnson is sending Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara hustling back to Viet Nam again for another look, his fifth in 12 months, plus five he made to Honolulu for conferences on how to win the war.

Squads of other officials have been over to one or both places, including Gen. Maxwell Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; President Johnson when he was vice president; and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy. Johnson and Kennedy made Viet Nam a stop on their world tours.

The war itself has been going from bad to worse, making the optimism of some of these eminent American visitors look a little incredible in retrospect.

Johnson, for instance, was so carried away he made 15 impromptu speeches and dashed around shaking hands with the crowds the way he does now with tourists at the White House.

He sized up the dictatorial President of Viet Nam, Ngo Dinh Diem, and promptly compared him with Sir Winston Churchill, although even then Diem was far from universally beloved. This was in May 1961.

(On Nov. 1, 1963, the Vietnamese showed how much they disagreed with Johnson by assassinating Diem and his brother in a military coup which took over the government.)

President Kennedy knew it was no perfect setup. In October, 1961, he sent Taylor over. Within a month Diem announced he would put in reforms. They were badly needed. And then he forgot them.

McNamara seemed to express the most optimism about a war which clearly wasn't going well, although this country had pumped in about $5 billion in aid over eight years, has 15,000 troops there, and over 220 Americans have been killed.

This is a list of the trips and the sayings:

January, 1962 — McNamara's first trip to Honolulu for an American military conference on Viet Nam. He came away saying he felt "encouraged."

February, 1962 — McNamara announced a new U.S. military command in Viet Nam and flew back to Honolulu for another conference.

February, 1962 — While McNamara was in Hawaii, Robert Kennedy was in Viet Nam saying "we have great confidence in President Diem."

May, 1962 — McNamara took his first plunge into Viet Nam and left saying he felt "tremendously encouraged."

July, 1962 — Despite his encouraged feeling, he went to Honolulu for another think-talk with the U.S. military. He came away a little gloomier, thought now winning in Viet Nam might "take years rather than months."

By James Marlow

September, 1962 — This time Taylor to Viet Nam. He told reporters the "Vietnamese are on the right track." If so, they sure got off it later.

June, 1963 — By now Viet Nam was in emotional flames made bright by Buddhist monks protesting Diem's treatment. Kennedy sent Henry Cabot Lodge over as ambassador to see what he could do.

September, 1963 — McNamara and Taylor back to Viet Nam. On their return they reportedly told a Senate committee: "We are winning out there" and things "are progressing very well on both the military and political fronts."

November, 1963 — This was the month in which McNamara and Taylor may have wished they hadn't made that statement in September. Diem and his brother were assassinated. President Kennedy was slain in Dallas, and the new President Johnson said he would carry on Kennedy's program in Viet Nam.

Just two days before Kennedy's killing, McNamara, Taylor and a whole raft of top officials were in a Honolulu talk-think on Viet Nam.

December, 1963 — McNamara back to Viet Nam. Once more: "Optimistic."

January, 1964 — The military junta which got rid of Diem was thrown out by Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, who took charge.

March, 1964 — McNamara back to Viet Nam. Not so sunny this time, said "the path to victory may be hard." And no wonder.

Last weekend Red frogmen were credited with sinking a U.S. aircraft ferry.

May 6, 1964 — Johnson announced another McNamara trip to Viet Nam.

Newsman's Wife Details White House Family Fete

EDITOR'S NOTE — Margot Cormier, wife of AP White House newsman Frank Cormier, dressed up three of their youngsters in their Sunday best Wednesday and took them to the President's outdoor news conference. This is her story of the big event.

By MARGOT CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP) — A whoop of joy came from 10-year-old Elizabeth, a hundred questions from 5-year-old John, a thoughtful silence from 4-year-old Billy.

My husband had just announced that "you're all invited to President Johnson's news conference." He suggested that even the baby, Michael, would want to go—but he was overruled.

Wednesday—the big day — I got shoes polished and Sunday school suits out. Billy's jacket was dirty and I had to borrow one.

Naptime was a shambles. No one would sleep.

We were in the car by 3:15 and on the drive into the city the boys rehearsed the greeting, "How do you do, Mr. President."

At the White House gate, a long line of mothers and children waited. It looked like Saturday afternoon at the neighborhood movie theater, except for everyone looking more dressed up.

Entry to the White House grounds brought a reaction of excitement mixed with relief that we had made it. The lawn was lush and green, the red-coated Marine Band was playing, and red-and-white striped awnings hung over the refreshment stands.

We found the best seats we could, well in the rear, while waiting for the President to appear, the children made two trips for cookies and punch. When they weren't eating or drinking, they kept asking, "Where's the President?"

Johnson came into view and the boys jumped to stand on their folding chairs. John's chair seat collapsed and his latest cup of punch flew over the both of us.

As the President made his opening announcements, Elizabeth sat engrossed. The boys wriggled and squirmed. I didn't hear much of what he said.

The President recognized dad for a question and the boys stood on their seats again.

"Daddy's up now," John announced. We couldn't hear the question and then John added, "Daddy's down now."

For the boys, the news conference was over.

The children made another trip to the refreshment stand, although the conference continued. Then more wriggling and squirming — and questions: Where'd the band go? Is that the White House? What's that on top of it?

When the President invited all the youngsters to join him on the stage, Elizabeth took the boys in tow.

I saw them climb to the stage. Then they vanished in the throng.

I saw the President, looking somewhat like the Pied Piper, and scores of other children. My own were out of sight.

Reappearing finally, they made yet another trip to the refreshment tent.

Elizabeth managed to shake hands with Mrs. Johnson. And all the children got to pat the President's beagles, "Him" and "Her."

Everyone was happy.

French Predict Yankee Debacle

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Frenchmen in Indochina still shudder when Dien Bien Phu is mentioned.

The drama of the last days of that lonely valley fortress has been etched nearly as deeply as Waterloo in French history.

"That was the end of our dream of staying here," a French businessman said in Saigon this week. "Yes, the end of our dream, but don't you think it may have been the beginning of a possible nightmare for the United States?"

The French dropped the ball in Indochina when Dien Bien Phu fell May 7, 1954, after 55 days and nights of fierce fighting. The 10,000-man French force defending the outpost in high mountain valley along the north Vietnamese border with Laos was captured.

It was just a matter of time until the Communists gained North Viet Nam on the bargaining tables at Geneva.

The French dropped the ball. But the United States picked it up and is still running with it. Some Frenchmen who remember the old days believe the United States is running toward its own Dien Bien Phu.

Hundreds of Frenchmen have settled in Saigon. They sit around Saigon cafes and comment sagely and often cynically on the progress of the new Indochina war that the United States is fighting in South Viet Nam.

Shaking his head slowly, a veteran French journalist commented: "You — the United States—think you can beat the Vietnams, and succeed where we failed. But the war is progressing now as it did against us. The Viet Cong are showing fighting capability today that was not thought possible last year. Your Dien Bien Phu will come."

Americans doubt it. "The French set themselves up like pigeons at Dien Bien Phu," a U.S. officer commented. "They crammed 20 battalions into that valley and squatted like ducks. They were ready for the killing."

Military strategists have emphasized that the fall of Dien Bien Phu illustrated some basic military principles of military lore. One of these: Don't underestimate your enemy.

It was this factor as much as any that is believed to have led to the defeat at Dien Bien Phu.

Experts Say Future Good For Dairying

Ohio dairymen attending a meeting in Columbus heard two of the state's leading agricultural authorities say that the dairy industry has a bright future.

The occasion was a Dairy Honor luncheon, held at The Ohio State University to recognize outstanding dairy farmers and testing supervisors.

Dr. Roy M. Kottman, dean of Ohio State's College of Agriculture and director of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, told the honored guests, "I can't help but be optimistic about an industry that is producing such a food as milk."

He said he felt that the industry would continue to do an even better job of encouraging people to use dairy products.

Dr. N. L. Van Demark, chairman of the Dairy Science Department of Ohio State and the Experiment Station, also was optimistic in his remarks about the future of dairying. He said: "By constant effort to learn more and more about cattle and the allied areas of dairying, and through constant effort and co-operation of the people in all fields associated with dairying, we should be able to keep pace with the changes and to keep dairying competitive with other areas. Milk still is one of the most nutritious foods, and we need to remind our city cousins of this fact every chance we get."

DR. VAN DEMARK said research is needed to combat many problems that have constantly plagued dairymen. He mentioned mastitis, milk fever, ketosis, and fertility problems.

Fifty outstanding dairy farmers and dairy testing supervisors received awards at the luncheon, sponsored by the Ohio Dairyman's Assn. and the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service.

Stay Alert For Storms In Spring

The tornado season is here. Spring is a bad time of year for these treacherous storms, although they can strike at other times too.

Weather records show tornadoes were reported in Ohio in April, May, June, July and September last year. They hit 20 Ohio areas. On one day in April, 1963 they were reported in 12 different locations.

"Tornadoes can occur any time any place," says Roger Miller, Ohio State University Extension specialist in emergency preparedness. "Knowing what to do when you receive a warning, or when you see a tornado, may save your life."

Miller offers several suggestions for tornado protection.

If you are in open country: move at right angles to the tornado's path; lie flat in the nearest depression, such as a ditch or ravine, if there is no time to escape.

IF YOU are in a city or town: seek inside shelter, preferably in a steel reinforced building. Stay away from windows!

If you are in a home: go to the southwest corner of the lowest floor or the basement. If time permits, shut off electricity and fuel lines. Opening windows on the north and east sides of the house may help reduce damage to the building. If you live in a brick or stone house, seek other shelter, preferably in a storm cellar or the basement of a frame house.

If you are at the office: stand against an inside wall on a lower floor.

Negro Churchmen Stress Moderation

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Negro is entitled to full civil rights, "but we in this church believe in moderation when it comes to demonstrations," says Bishop Sherman L. Greene, who will preside at the 37th general conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Church opening today.

Bishop Greene, of Atlanta, Ga., spoke Tuesday night at a pre-convention dinner, and said: "We believe some demonstrations are excessive—they go too far. We should only do enough to awaken the conscience of the country. Things like the New York business at the World's Fair have gone a little too far."

Coin, Gun Collections Stolen in Fremont

FREMONT, Ohio (AP)—Four hooded men forced their way into a private home here early Wednesday, tied up Mr. and Mrs. John Ziegler and their two daughters and left with coin and gun collections valued at more than $10,000, the Sandusky County sheriff's office reported.

Voters Settle 3 Appellate Court Races

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — There were primary contests Tuesday in only three of the state Appellate Court's 10 districts.

In the 7th District, Democratic incumbent James G. France of Kent, unopposed in the primary, will face Republican Nils P. Johnson of Canfield in November for the unexpired term ending Feb. 8, 1967.

Johnson bested John A. Reddy of Sebring and Henry C. Robinson of Youngstown in the primary.

Another incumbent judge in that district, Republican George M. Jones of Youngstown, who was unopposed, faces Democrat John J. Lynch of Youngstown for the full term starting Feb. 9, 1965. Lynch defeated Paul J. Fleming of Youngstown.

In the only race in which both parties had a primary contest, the 4th District, attorney Gordon B. Gray of Athens, a Republican, will run against Democrat Warren S. Earhart of Ironton, a Lawrence County Common Pleas Court judge.

Gray defeated J. Earl Pratt of South Point and Earhart bested Forrest P. Moore of Logan.

There was a GOP primary race in the 3rd District. Republican incumbent George S. Middleton of Bellefontaine defeated J. Gareth Hitchcock of Paulding and Robert G. Payne of Findlay. Middleton faces John D. Harnishfeger of Lima in November.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Episcopal leaders of the Southern Diocese of Ohio have come out in support of the civil rights bill as passed by the House.

Adoption of the resolution came after an hour of debate. Bishop Roger Blanchard, presiding officer, urged the 381 voting delegates to discuss the resolution with parishioners and "each should write or wire his senator expressing a stand."

The two-day convention ended with the election of the diocese's standing committee.

Named were Frank G. Smith of Columbus, the Rev. Gordon S. Price of Dayton, the Rev. Morris Arnold of Cincinnati, Robert L. Black Jr. of Cincinnati and Edward A. Dougherty of Cincinnati.

Dayton was selected for the site of the 1966 convention.

Another area winner is Jack Beckman, Route 2, Circleville. He was awarded a 50-pound box of nails for his slip deposited at the Pickaway Grain Co. in Circleville. Raymond Grabill, Mt. Views on Television—Radio

NEW YORK (AP)—The end of television's current "Beatle" infestation is not yet in sight. Ed Sullivan, whose CBS variety hour seems to be a wholesale importer of Liverpool singing groups these days, has signed "Jerry and the Paces" for a second appearance next Sunday and taped a third turn for use later on.

There is still another group to come over: "Billy J. Kramer and the Dakotas," which will appear on the show sometime next month.

Elderly (i.e.: over 21 years of age) television viewers who recently have received the impression that the Sunday night show was inundated with writhing rock and rollers may be comforted by a statement of entertainment philosophy by Robert Precht, Sullivan's son-in-law who is the show's producer.

"In our minds, this British thing is something of a phenomenon which has been occurring in the past three or four months," he said. "They are extraordinarily attractive with the younger viewers and we felt we should go along with it."

Precht said that it has always been the policy of the show to present singers and others whose record sales were at the top of popularity lists—which is where "The Beatles" and their British brethren are currently perched.

NBC's "White Paper" series next season will include a one hour special on Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

NBC goes through with its plans for a "Daniel Boone" show next season (with Fess Parker playing the famous frontiersman), a lot of viewers may get the impression it is a new season of "The Richard Boone Show," which has been canceled. Think however, of the confusion if NBC has two Boone shows simultaneously in its scheduled.

AME Parley Hears from Governor

CINCINNATI (AP) — Delegates to the 37th convention of the African Methodist Episcopal Church heard greetings from the governor of West Virginia Wednesday night after a leading bishop urged them to become more active in the civil rights movement.

Gov. W. W. Barron of West Virginia was the only one of three governors able to appear before the convention.

"The evergrowing and helpful effect of religious action in the complexities of modern government continues to strengthen the basic fabric of our society," Barron said.

Speaking of improved economic conditions in his state, the governor said that "in West Virginia the power and authority of the church, supported by our enthusiasm for its work, is an overriding incentive for greater service by our people."

Earlier in the day, Bishop W. R. Wilkes of Atlanta said in his opening address that the AME Church endorses the civil rights bill now in Congress.

"Political action must be made a major Christian concern in today's America and our church must intensify its efforts in that direction," Bishop Wilkes said.

"Each of our churches, and there are some 5,600 of them throughout the nation, must make registration and voting a principal activity in their respective communities."

Dr. Grace Hewell, coordinator of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, was scheduled to address the convention today.

HOW TO START A GREAT BREWERY IN ONE EASY LESSON

First, you capture the secret of fire-brewed flavor.

How? You brew your beer over direct fire... just like Bernard Stroh did more than one hundred years ago—and like they're still doing today at 909 E. Elizabeth Street, in Detroit, Michigan.

Why? Well, so that you can brew enough of it to take care of all the people in this part of the Midwest who each day ask for and enjoy over three million bottles of this exclusive fire-brewed flavor.

They're the people who say that fire-brewed flavor gives them just what they want—just what they look for—just what they most completely enjoy—in the beer they drink. They're the ones who know that fire-brewed flavor makes one great beer taste like other beers wish they could.

So you can see why all you really need to start a great brewery in one easy lesson is that fire-brewed flavor.

Maybe, on second thought, you'd be wise to relax and enjoy—right now—the only beer that could give you any competition—the only one that already has that fire-brewed flavor... Stroh's.

TEAMSTERS Vice President John J. O'Rourke (left) of New York has presented something of a challenge to the iron grip of James Hoffa (right) by demanding that the union stop paying the heavy legal fees of his trials. O'Rourke's demand was based on advice of Edward Bennett Williams (middle), Teamsters general counsel, that such payments are not lawful. After the demand, Hoffa cut himself off from further use of Teamster funds for legal purposes.

Strikeout King Also Displays Mighty Bat

Nicholson Helps Give Chisox Twin Win with 2 HRs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Dave Nicholson, reaching for even greater heights with his strikeout act this season, has added depth to the other half of his repertory.

The Chicago White Sox swinger is missing the third strike at a slightly faster rate than he did last season when he fanned a record 175 times.

But Nicholson went a long way Wednesday night toward showing his ability as a double threat as the White Sox swept a doubleheader from Kansas City 6-4 and 11-4.

Actually, it was the ball that went a long way—573 feet by Comiskey Park measurement. The hit was one of three home runs Nicholson clouted in the two games.

According to existing records, only a 600-foot blast by Babe Ruth at Detroit in 1926 went farther than Nicholson's home run over the roof of the left-field stands.

Nicholson's other two homers didn't go as far, but they still accounted for four runs and gave him four homers for the season.

At the same time, the 6-foot-2, 215-pounder gave equal treatment to his strikeout artistry, fanning three times for a season total of 22. If he maintains his present pace and bats the same number of times as he did last year, the 24-year-old right-hander would strike out 194 times.

Nicholson wasn't the only home run hitter Wednesday night. The New York Yankees got into the act as they split a doubleheader with Washington, winning the opener 9-2 and dropping the nightcap 5-4. Cleveland home runs stopped Baltimore 6-3 and Los Angeles nipped Minnesota 4-3 in other American League games.

In the National League, Pittsburgh edged St. Louis 1-0, Los Angeles halted Houston 5-2, Philadelphia edged Milwaukee 7-6. Cincinnati turned back New York 12-4 and Chicago defeated San Francisco 4-2.

Nicholson's second homer in the first game, a two-run blow, climaxed a four-run rally and clinched the victory for Gary Peters. In the nightcap, Nicholson's two-run blast came during Chicago's five-run first inning. Jim Gentile had cracked a three-run homer for the Athletics in the first.

Floyd Robinson connected for the White Sox in the third while Minnie Minoso belted a three-run pinch homer in the seventh, putting the game far beyond Kansas City's reach.

The Yankees, held to three home runs in 13 games, erupted for five homers but still gained only a split with the Senators. Hector Lopez connected twice and Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris once each as New York glided to the first-game victory.

Mantle hit another in the second game, which the Senators won in the ninth when Chuck Hinton scored from third on catcher Elston Howard's passed ball. Hinton smashed a two-run homer in the first game and a three-run blow in the second.

Marietta Crew Cops 7th Straight Victory

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Marietta College's undefeated crew churned to its seventh victory of the season Wednesday with a length and a half victory over Drexel Tech on the Schuylkill River. Marietta's crew covered the distance of one and 5-16 miles in 6:46.1, six seconds better than Drexel.

11th Inning Balk Costly to Syracuse

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A balk in the 11th inning ended Syracuse's seven-game winning streak and put the International League leading Chiefs one-half game behind Toronto in the won-lost column.

Reliever Bob Dustal committed the balk with the bases loaded and two-out giving Richmond a 3-2 decision. In other games Wednesday, Atlanta won its first of the season 7-2 over Buffalo, Toronto defeated Jacksonville 5-3 and Rochester beat Columbus 7-2.

Death of Baseball Star Seen Aid to Footballer

HOUSTON (AP)—The death of one young athlete may have indirectly saved the life of another.

Mickey Herskowitz of the Houston Post, traveling with the Houston Colts, told from Los Angeles Wednesday the remarkable story that involves an almost chilling coincidence.

Two weeks ago Jack Pardee, former star fullback at Texas A&M and now a linebacker with the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League, quietly underwent surgery for the removal of a malignant growth on his right forearm.

Pardee, now recovering at his home in the San Fernando Valley, is optimistic about the future, and will know within 30 days if he can report in July for the start of his eighth professional season.

On the morning of April 10, Pardee sat down to breakfast and turned to the sports section of a Los Angeles newspaper.

Booster Calendar Sales Program Is Under Way

The Circleville Booster Club initiated its Birthday Calendar sales program at a meeting last night in the Pickaway County Fairgrounds Coliseum.

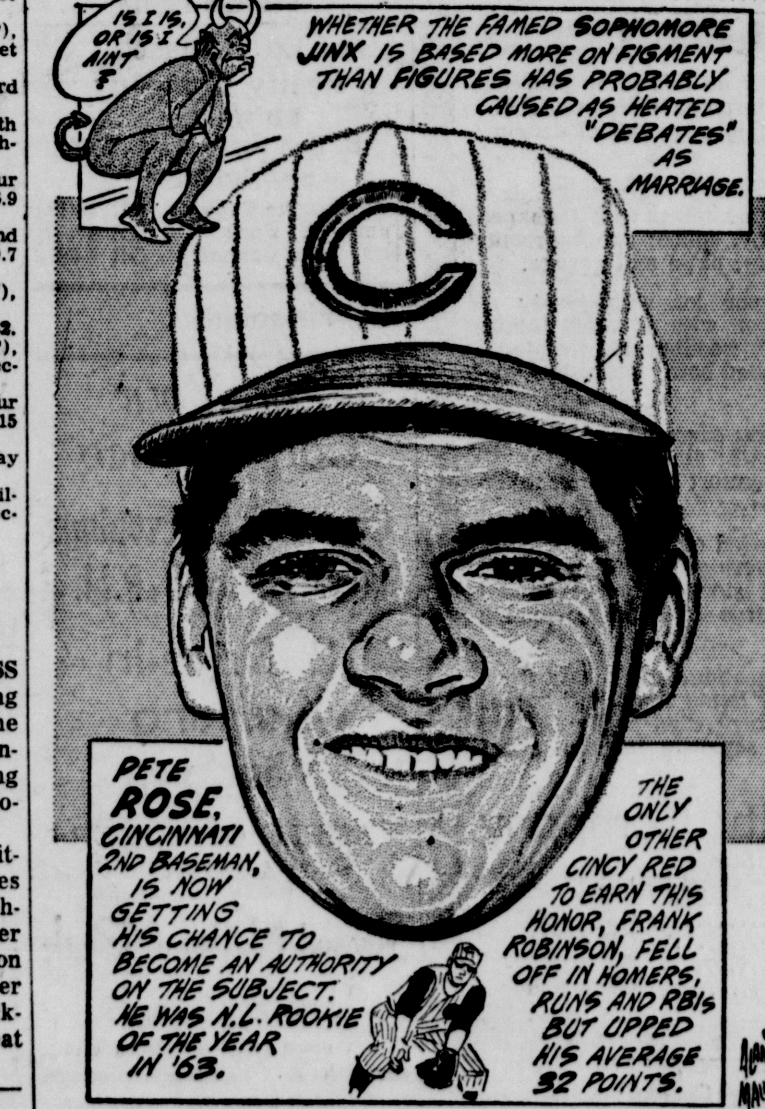

Jim McCoskey, general chairman of the program, announced these sub-committee chairmen:

Jim Diltz, advertising; Dick Tootle, organizational listing committee; Chet Iery, individual canvass committee; Bob Chapman, publicity.

The calendars can be ordered during the next 10 days by calling any Booster Club member, Chapman reported.

Other business discussed at last night's meeting included a proposal to add more lights at the high school football field. A nominating committee was appointed.

Reds Give Hutch His 'Big Inning'

NEW YORK (AP)—Manager Fred Hutchinson has been wondering what happened to the "big inning" as far as his Cincinnati Reds were concerned.

He can stop wondering. The Reds had one of these innings Wednesday night when they scored six times in the fifth and routed the New York Mets, 12-4.

Leo Cardenas and Frank Robinson were the big batters of the evening game, the first ever played in the new Shea Stadium. Cardenas drove in four runs with four hits, while Robinson's two hits accounted for three tallies.

Young Sammy Ellis went the distance for the first time in the majors. He gave up seven hits, while the Reds connected for 13 safeties off five New York pitchers.

The defeat was charged to Bill Wakefield (0-1), who started the game for the Mets.

Jim Maoney (2-2) was expected to start against the Mets today with Al Jackson (2-3) as his most likely opponent.

Monroe Posts 7-4 Victory Over Darby

The Monroe Indians blasted Darby pitching for seven hits yesterday, to post a 7-4 Pickaway County League victory.

The winners scored a run in the first inning and two in the second to take a lead they never relinquished. The win gives Monroe a 2-0 loop mark while the Trojans have a 2-3 slate.

Bill Armentrout was the winning hurler. He was touched for four hits, fanned 11 and walked 10.

In the first inning, he loaded the bases by walking three Trojans. He was relieved by Gary Moore who completed that frame.

Armentrout came back to start the second inning and finished the game.

Darby had 10 men on base, but failed to get the key hits.

Dave Rowland was the losing hurler. He went 5½ frames, giving up six hits, fanning four and walking six. He was relieved by Dannie Bowen who allowed one hit, walked one and whiffed three.

Tom Seeley and O'Connor cracked doubles, the longest hits of the game.

Rain, Top Foes Threaten Nicklaus

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Rain and a top-flight field posed a duplicate threat to Jack Nicklaus today as he opened his bid for the Colonial National Invitation Golf Championship.

Nicklaus, young powerhouse from Ohio, was rated the favorite as 72 players teed off in quest of a plump $75,000 purse.

A record $14,000 has been set aside for the winner who, the experts contend, will be Nicklaus, Masters champion Arnold Palmer or defending champion Julius Boros.

However, it was youthful Dave Ragan of Orlando, Fla., who stole the preliminary spotlight with a two-under-par 68 in a pro-amateur Wednesday. It netted him first-place money of $350.

Youth Baseball Officials Slate Team Tryouts

The Circleville Youth Baseball program has scheduled another session of tryouts for the Babe Ruth and Little Leagues it was announced today by Bill Thomas, president.

Thomas noted that scholastic tests held in Columbus last week the day of the tryouts limited attendance.

In order to give all youths interested in playing with a team a chance to be placed, the tryouts were reslated.

Thomas noted that managers were still needed by the program. Adults who wish to work with a team this summer should contact either Thomas, Roy Farmer or Joe Gibbs.

Canton Bulldogs Are Active Again

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — This cradle of organized professional football and home of the pro football Hall of Fame once more has its own professional club.

Canton officially entered the United Football League Wednesday taking over the franchise held for three seasons by the Cleveland Bulldogs.

Duncan McCauley, former fullback at Midwestern University in Texas and a member of the former Louisville team in the UFL, was named general manager.

The first pro football league, the forerunner of the National Football League, was organized here in 1921.

Special Hours Set By ASCS Office For Wheat Signup

J. Austin Dowden, office manager for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office, announced today that the office will be open from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. Monday through Friday until May 15 for the purpose of signing applications to participate in the 1964 Wheat Stabilization Program.

These special hours have been arranged for the convenience of the producers who wish to participate, the office manager said.

Dowden explained that wheat producers who wish to take part in the new voluntary program will need to sign up at the ASCS County office because there will be no "automatic" participation. Only those wheat producers who sign up and carry out provisions of the program will be eligible for the program benefits. The signup, now underway, will extend through May 15.

At her trial she admitted being Pacjak's mistress, said she considered he was pro-Western and believed the reports on his country would make him more so.

LONDON (AP)—Britain's National Gallery has bought Lord Derby's celebrated Rembrandt "Belshazzar's Feast," for 170,000 pounds ($476,000).

Experts value the painting at more than a million dollars, but if Lord Derby sold at that price to a private buyer he would have to pay half in taxes.

The painting has been at the Derby family's 700-year-old mansion, since the early 18th century at least.

Experts say the picture dates from 1634 or 1635.

VIENNA (AP)—Czechoslovakia's Communist government is finally taking steps to put something in the place of Prague's giant Stalin monument, torn down 17 months ago.

Radio Prague reported the government has invited architects to submit designs for a cultural center at the site on Letna Hill.

Stock Prices Still Climb

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued to move higher in active trading early this afternoon despite some profit taking.

Plus signs predominated as key stocks moved generally from fractions to about a point. The market's upward drive, now in its fifth straight day, appeared to be running into increasing difficulty.

Chrysler continued to draw buyers because of its recent glowing report on sales. Trading had to be halted temporarily in the stock to match orders after it had climbed 1 to 50.

Other motors were mixed, with changes narrow. The major steelmakers pressed ahead slightly.

Gains by selected industrials supported the list but there was nothing much in the way of pronounced group leadership. Utilities and rails were mixed.

An uneven pattern also prevailed among chemicals, oils, airlines, tobaccos and nonferrous metals.

The Associated Press average of 80 stocks at noon was up .4 at 306.9 with industrials up .7, rails up .2 and utilities up .1.

News of World in Brief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Joseph Gill, general counsel for the Ohio Railroad Association, said today he would file suit in Franklin County Common Pleas Court Friday to test Ohio's 51-year-old full crew law which runs afoul of a recent federal arbitration board ruling.

Gill is maintaining the federal arbitration board award calling for elimination of certain firemen on a railroad crew cannot be put into effect in Ohio because of this state's law.

Ohio law requires full crews of an engineer, fireman, conductor and two brakemen.

MOREHEAD, Ky. (AP) — A loaded school bus flipped over a 100-foot embankment near here today after colliding with a dump truck and first reports said about 25 children and the driver were injured.

State police said it appeared the dump truck slid on the slick roadway and its bed struck the side of the bus, which had picked up children from the North Fork section of Triplet and was heading for Rowan County High School.

The accident occurred shortly after 8 a.m. about 2½ miles north of Morehead on Ky. 32.

LONDON (AP) — The United States advised Britain today that a second check again has failed to produce any evidence that the heads of two British soldiers were paraded through Taiz, Yemen's diplomatic capital.

The Foreign Office said details of a second check by U.S. diplomats on the spot were received from the U.S. State Department.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The U.S. government settled its $966,193.18 income tax claim against Michael (Trigger Mike) Coppola today for $400,000.

Coppola, 61, who was identified by gangster Joseph Valachi in U.S. Senate hearings as a crew chief in the Cosa Nostra crime syndicate, will pay $266,667.66 for income taxes due and $133,333.34 penalties.

Coppola was charged with evading income tax payments from 1952 through 1959, except for the years 1953 and 1955.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Workers in a downtown office building went to the windows when they heard a rich baritone voice singing "Because of You."

It was John A. Giardina, a carpenter, giving one of his frequent lunch-hour concerts Wednesday for co-workers on a construction project.

Giardina, a onetime performer with the Buffalo Civic Orchestra, also sang "O Sole Mio" and other songs and arias.

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — President Johnson has been criticized for giving his two pet Beagles "affectionate ear tugs," says the president of the Vanderburgh County Humane Society.

The society has sent Johnson a 1½ membership.

"I've seen men pinch their wives, and I think the women enjoy it," said Dorothy Lutz, who heads the society. "If the dogs get used to a few tugs, chances are they like it too."

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — "If he heard a scream, it must have come from the TV when one of the wrestlers got an arm lock on the other guy."

That was the explanation Mrs. J.D. Morton, 75, gave Wednesday when Washington State troopers sped to her home to investigate a report from her son Francis in Albany, Ore.

Morton said he heard a scream while talking to his mother on the telephone, then the line went dead.

Mrs. Morton said there was a bad connection on two calls from Francis.

"When he called the third time, I didn't pay any attention. Besides, I was watching wrestling on TV and didn't want to be disturbed."

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Newly arrived refugees reported increasing uneasiness in Communist Cuba today.

"The atmosphere in Cuba is one of rebellion," said Jose Garcel Mora of Oriente Province, who fled by rowboat and was picked up by a vessel that brought him and eight companions to Miami.

"There are increasing rumors that something big is going to happen in May."

The Revolutionary Junta renewed a promise that its men will land in Cuba by May 20 to join guerrillas already there.

LONDON (AP) — Barbara Fell, 55, a British civil servant imprisoned for giving information to her Yugoslav lover, has been freed.

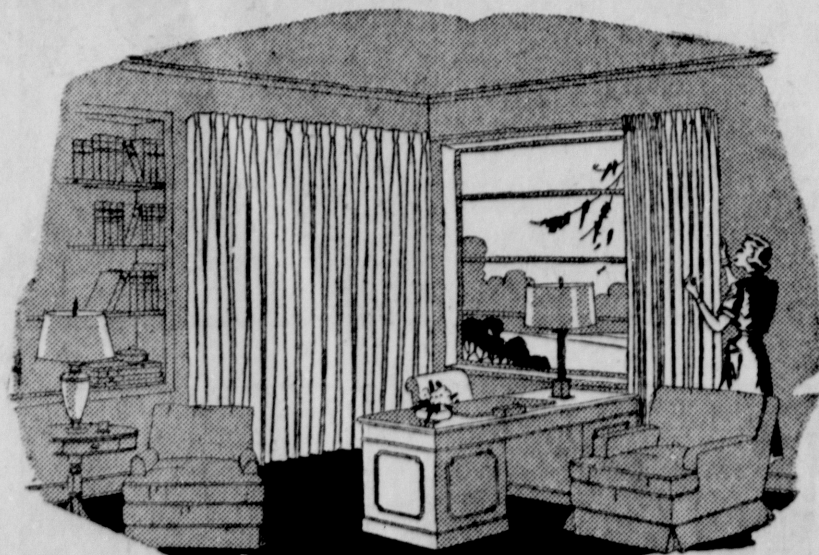

The Home Office said she was released from prison Wednesday. She went into seclusion, and her attorneys said she would make no statement.

Miss Fell was chief officer of the Central Information Office's overseas division. She was convicted of communicating confidential reports on the political situation in Yugoslavia to Smil-

NEW METERS — Nolan Dunkle (left), local parking meter officer, and Patrolman Jack Mills install a new meter on Court St. in front of the Courthouse. It is one of 21 new meters installed today at various locations. Police Chief Robert Temple said starting today all city meters will require a nickel coin except a few placed along Pinckney St. Up until today, some of the older type time devices were geared for pennies and nickels.
